INDIAN INSTITUTE OF
CHEMICAL ENGINEERS – DTU
CHAPTER

ANNUAL REPORT

2017-18

OUR MISSION

The mission of our society is to prepare students for professional practice, graduate study, and lifelong learning. We aim to promote and stimulate the advancement of chemistry and related sciences amongst the students by means of organized discussions, conferences, seminars, and workshops. We also encourage and support original chemical research, and application of chemistry.

Because of the rapidly changing technological society in which we live, today's chemical engineering graduates cannot be rooted into a single, standard mode of operation. They must be able to adapt readily to changing technologies and problem emphases, and develop creative solutions that are responsive to society as a whole. Thus, today's engineering students need to be rooted primarily in principles, not techniques.

Through regularly scheduled discussions and workshops on the Chemical Engineering, we aim to serve as a forum for networking, information sharing, idea exchange and problem solving for the Chemical Engineering students.

The Society also aims to promote links between engineers and industrialists, and will do so through technical and business interest groups and by organizing guest lectures, seminars and industrial trips for the students.

- ASME DTU student section was officially recognized by ASME in December 2012. Over the past 3.5 years, ASME DTU has become one of the biggest engineering societies on the Delhi Technological University campus due to the continued efforts of the section operating committee to ensure sustained benefits for the members and the engineering society. The approach towards building the student section was to focus on providing members with regular learning opportunities through small but regular activities initially and then gradually taking a number of bigger initiatives which served to build the reputation of ASME. ASME DTU student section has continued its legacy and has 100+ members who have registered in 2016-2017.
- SAE-DTU Chapter has a history of great achievements. The current student council envisages the club to be a community of aware, competent and active engineers who are well acquired with the off-book knowledge by the means of regular workshops, quizzes, competitions and industrial visits. This chapter organized 4-days CADD Workshop was organized in the month of October 2015 to educate students about the design softwares used in the industry. Further, SAE organized one day ANSYS Workshop on design software ANSYS for the students of SAE-DTU Chapter in association with Expert Inglobe on 10 Feb 2016.
- Institute of Mechanical Engineers (IMEchE) India-DTU student chapter organized SOFE-2014 at Bio-Diesel Lab, DTU.

TEAM RAFTAAR

INTRODUCTORY NOTE

FACULTY ADVISOR:
Prof. Rajesh Kumar (Mech Engg. Deptt.)

Team Raftaar is a team of undergraduate students who share a common vision, i.e., to engrain the dynamic concept of Human Powered Vehicles in our day to day lives and thus, promote sustainable modes of transportation for a better world ahead.

We compete in the ASME's Human Powered Vehicle Challenge in both India and the USA where universities across the globe design, manufacture, innovate and finally, race their Human Powered Vehicles and are evaluated on the basis of their safety, robustness, speed, innovation and more importantly our ability to engage the necessary clout to push the concept of Human Powered Vehicles to new realizable heights.

For the same, we design a fully Carbon Fiber faired recumbent bicycle to optimize the aerodynamic and drivetrain related traits and which has bolstered our capabilities to achieve speeds in excess of 70 Kmph purely out of Human Power.

For making our vehicle achieve the vision of practical applications, our electronics team made a Landing Gear Suggestion System (LGSS) for a vehicle that ensures safety along with optimal performance and was awarded 1st prize for the same at the Penn State University, Pennsylvania, USA.

After establishing our stronghold in the Indian [2015] and the Asia Pacific [2017] events by being the Overall champions, we participated in the North American Event and secured 5th Position in Design Event at the ASME HPVC E-Fest 2018, East Coast held at Penn State University, Pennsylvania, USA working on a "Metal-Free" Human Powered Vehicle by manufacturing it completely out of Carbon Fiber making our Vehicle lighter and faster than ever.

DANDIYA NIGHT

Organised By DTUSA in collaboration with Cultural council

Joint-Secretary
DTU-SA

The students of Delhi Technological University celebrated Navratri in a colourful Dandiya Night Celebration on 12th October, 2018 between 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. on the Aryabhata Ground in the campus.

The entire College community including students from East Campus and Mtech students participated in the festive night making a footfall greater than 500 people in their traditional finery. The programme organised by DTU-SA along with Cultural Council approved under the Shamsheer Sir (Registrar DTU), SK Garg Sir(Pro-VC-I) and Indu maam(Faculty Head Cultural Council).

There was arrangement of proper Music band enlivened the performance with vibrant music and lively scores. Happiness resonated in every move as students from main campus and east campus danced together. Free Dandiya were distributed to the Students and Dancers. There was also a supply of Food from Mr.Foodie who install his food stall in the Ground.

Apart from being a celebration of traditional splendour the occasion also strengthened the bond of love among the members of the College community.

Rhaniz

‘Nava-ratri’ means ‘nine nights’ where the three goddesses – Durga, Lakshmi and Saraswathi – are invoked. These goddesses are symbolic of the three prime qualities namely, Strength, Wealth and Wisdom respectively. More than a religious festival, it is now a widely accepted forum for social interaction, where people from all walks of life come together to dance and intermingle.

DTU Students from all Campus – right from first years to mtech – joined in the celebration led by our very renown Music band, who played some authentic garba music to get the heart beats racing. The ambience was full of vigour and zest. The Aryabhata Ground was a colourful sight with all the students in their traditional vestures. First yrs boys wore the typical kafni pyjamas and short kurta’s designed with embroidery and mirrors. The girls wore chaniya choli’s and multi coloured ghaghra’s the older girls were graceful as ever in gorgeous lahenga sarees with accessories.

Everyone danced in circles, clicking sticks to the energetic beats of the DJ as the music smoothly flowed from one song to another.

This was a day of bonding, where the gathering, the celebration and the dance etched a unique combination signifying the diversity of Indian culture. Being an University, this is something that DTU values immensely – the diversity of perspectives that exist in local, national and global communities. It is the celebration of the festivals of all regions and religions that instill in our children the culture of open-mindedness.

Development of solar powered multi utility vehicle; project report

In the era of renewable energy, solar energy has played a crucial role in fulfilling the demands of masses upto some extent .This report constitutes the details related to solar panel system ,its corresponding electrical system and the vehicle dynamics of the respective vehicle which has been converted in an hybrid .

A solar vehicle is an electric vehicle powered completely by sun using PV cells contained in solar panel .Solar energy is used to power all of vehicle's propulsion

The design of car is severely limited to the amount of solar input.At present the cross sectional area acquired in the vehicle for subsequent solar panel installation is 3.4 square metres. Even the best cells can collect limited power from car surface. Moreover the efficiency of solar panels are not upto the mark (roughly 20%).

These vehicles lack safety and need to be lighter for higher efficiency which limits it to the usage of ultra-light composites which are costly.

Vehicle weighs 148kg (unloaded),620kg (loaded) and can travel upto 85 km in a single charge . The net power supplied it is through :

- 4 X 150W solar panels which roughly provide 1.6 units (only during bright sunny days).

- 4 X 12V Lead acid battery pack which stores the additional electric power generated and is the primary source which operated the vehicle . They are available ,hence cheap (relatively)and appreciable power density.

The charging must be controlled to avoid overcharging and potential charge leaking.

The charge controller (or regulator) functions

a)to protect the batteries from overcharging;

b) to protect the panel from power going back into it from the batteries at night (assuming no blocking diode fitted);

c) helps maintain battery condition by keeping the battery voltage high.

We supply two basic types of controller: on/off and Pulse Width Modulated (PWM). On/off as its name suggests, switches of the power from the panel to the battery when the voltage reaches a certain level, and switches back on when it drops. This means that there are periods of time when there is no power going from the panel to the battery. PWM controllers allow the battery voltage to increase, and then maintain it at a steady but high level.

DC Motor

High torque Dc motor are used around of 1Hp whose speed is controlled by switch designed with 4 tapping giving different values of resistance at each tapping hence limiting the current to the motor .The motor running at the last tapping will produce highest speed with minimum resistance and least torque just like gear-mechanism.

Innovation-Dual Axis Charging

In order to maximize the amount of solar incident in the roof of the vehicle. A dual axis tracker is designed such it will track the movement of sun both axis to ensure the panels to placed at maxima solar output. The intensity of sunrays is detected by LDRs which report the change in intensity to microcontroller which commands set of hydraulics to move the panel along an appropriate angle for the same.

REVERSE PARKING ASSIST USING ARDUINO UNO AND ULTRASONIC SENSOR

A combination of Arduino uno, U-sensor ,LED and active buzzer is used for the purpose.

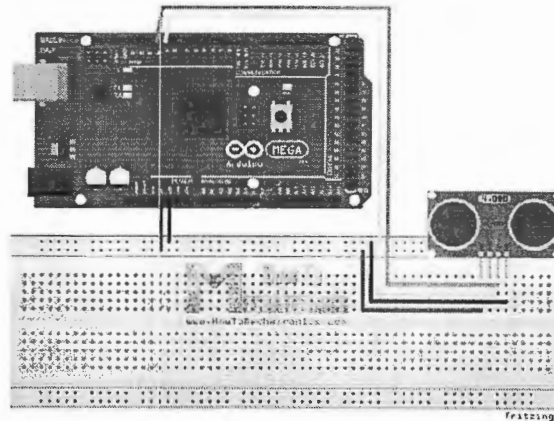

How It Works – Ultrasonic Sensor

It emits an ultrasound at 40 000 Hz which travels through the air and if there is an object or obstacle on its path It will bounce back to the module. Considering the travel time and the speed of the sound you can calculate the distance.

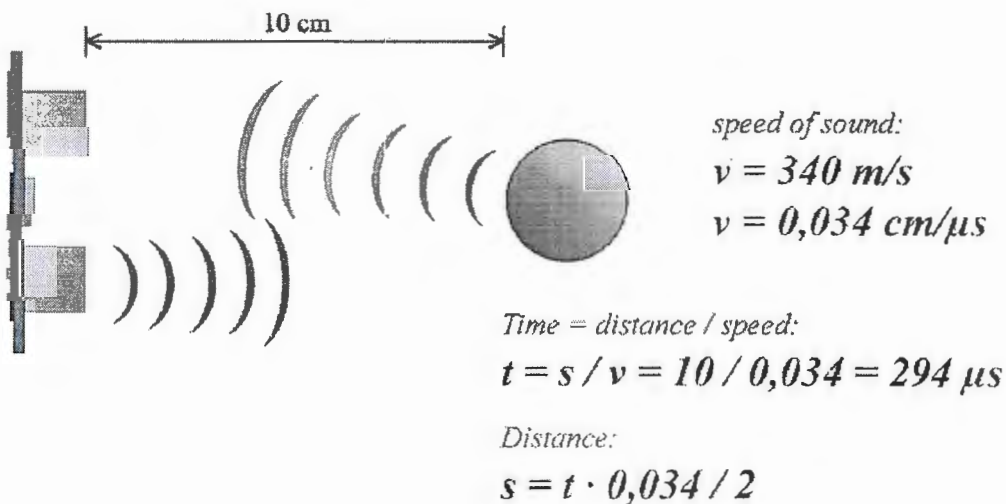

The HC-SR04 Ultrasonic Module has 4 pins, Ground, VCC, Trig and Echo. The Ground and the VCC pins of the module needs to be connected to the Ground and the 5 volts pins on the Arduino Board respectively and the trig and echo pins to any Digital I/O pin on the Arduino Board.

In order to generate the ultrasound you need to set the Trig on a High State for 10 μ s. That will send out an 8 cycle sonic burst which will travel at the speed sound and it will be received in the Echo pin. The Echo pin will output the time in microseconds the sound wave travelled.

For example, if the object is 10 cm away from the sensor, and the speed of the sound is 340 m/s or 0.034 cm/ μ s the sound wave will need to travel about 294 μ s. But what you will get from the Echo pin will be double that number because the sound wave needs to travel forward and bounce backward. So in order to get the distance in cm we need to multiply the received travel time value from the echo pin by 0.034 and divide it by 2.

Team Programming, more easy ?? Find out yourself!!!

Cook your own code and have a taste of what your teammate has made for you.

It can be tasty or bitter that's for you to handle!!!

Provided with a desired output, you and your teammate will code alternatively by switching on each intermittent sound of the buzzer.

3 LINES OF CODE**

Three lines of code is an exigent event that will be held to challenge your spontaneity and flare in debugging and problem solving. Problem solving can involve modifying the highlighted three lines of the code or arranging the given modules or segments of program under the time pressure and make the program work.

CONFERENCE**

Bridging the distance between students and industrial professionals, it aims at helping the students create a better and thorough perspective regarding the real world and the opportunities that it beholds. With talks by industrial experts from various fields, it sure will be an enlightening and learning experience for everyone who attends.

WMLMP WORKSHOP

SSE-DTU in association with department of computer science and engineering organized a 5-day long, 7 hours a day workshop on Machine Learning in predictive modelling from 4th to 8th December, 2017. It was free of cost but seats were limited.

The workshop was inaugurated in the SPS13 Hall on 4th December at 9:30 AM. The inaugural function commenced with lighting of the lamp by the dignitaries. Dr. Rajni Jindal, HOD, Department of Computer Science and Engineering, briefed about the application of machine learning and how it has gained its popularity in the recent times. She also appreciated the work of SSE-DTU in conducting these kinds of workshops which helps the students to gain practical knowledge of current technologies. The faculty advisor of SSE-DTU, Dr. Ruchika Malhotra delivered her address by stating that machine learning and AI concepts have been in existence since the 1960's but has only recently gained popularity due to advancements in computing and hardware technologies.

Motive of the workshop was to start from scratch and give students a glimpse on how they can proceed in the field of ML. Various topics were covered in detail with practical work.

Teams were formed and allocated projects and a guide and on last day of the workshop students were asked to submit a project proposals after discussing with their guides. Teams continued to work with their guides even after workshop. Later a submission was asked from all teams and after thorough evaluation by the jury best three projects were chosen and those teams were given the opportunity to continue their research work under guidance of faculty advisor of society of software Engineering.

All the participants were given certificates of completion of course.

The valedictory function started with address of President of SSE-DTU Mr. Rajat Chugh thanking Vice chancellor Prof. Yogesh Singh, HOD of computer science department Dr. Rajni Jindal, faculty advisor of SSE- DTU Dr. Ruchika Malhotra and all the students and faculties to make this workshop a successful and informative event. Dr. Ruchika Malhotra addressed the students congratulating them on their active participation and she hoped that the sessions had given them useful insights on the topics of machine learning and hoped that they would continue to carry out projects in these fields. Vice chancellor and HOD also gave their best wishes to the students for their future and appreciater the commendable job done by Society Of Software Engineering, DTU.

OUR THEME

The solution to a seemingly unsolvable problem. The entrance of a 'god' to bring an end to an unresolvable climax. The trump card. Referring to the introduction of these ideas, our theme, 'Deus Ex Machina' aims to coalesce with the very principle of TEDx– Ideas Worth Spreading. With issues arising in every field, our goal is to bring forth a series of revolutionary ideas which break the generic glass ceilings, and bring forth interesting outcomes. Rather than being unexpected twists in the scenarios, we aim to foster the generation of solutions which have been staring us in the face all along, and invoke conversations of its implications in the modern scenario

- L
- QUIZZES AND ESSAYS: This includes various competitions including financial wizard quiz and essay writing competitions to celebrate financial literacy week.
 - MOCK STOCKS: A mock stock exchange event is basically buying and selling stocks without using money, by using chips, pretend funds, or even points instead of real investment capital. When one starts trading in the stock market, there are many common blunders committed by beginners. Using a mock stock exchange will allow one to trade without any risks, so that one gets the market and trading experience one wants without involving money in the process. These are also frequently called trading simulations, because one gets all of the benefits but none of the risks. We organised intra-society mock-stock competitions to inculcate the strong basics of trading and investing and understand market sentiments and also send in our delegation of students for various mock stocks competitions to other colleges and universities in Delhi.

Voice Of animals is an initiative started by NSS DTU in order to help animals and prevent them from being harassed by others and ensure their welfare. Since animals can't speak out their sufferings so Health department of NSS-DTU wanted to help them by providing a platform to the Animal lovers in college to come out and be the voice for our college animals.

Events organized by Voice of Animals:

1) Placing Clay pots in college to feed animals:

We decided to place clay pots to feed animals with food like rotis and water from time to time. The spots we identified to place these clay pots are:

1. Mic mac

DelTech Model United Nations Conference '18

DelTech MUN & Debating Society

Report

Our flagship annual event, a national-level DelTech Model UN Conference started in 2012. In our 7th edition of the conference that had taken place, DelTech MUN established the institution's repute for its quality of debate & organization par excellence in the student debating circuit all over the nation; and saw over 300 students attend the conference this year. For this edition, we also had the official support of the United Nations Information Centre for India & Bhutan and were fortunate to receive a letter of encouragement from the erstwhile UN Secretary General, Mr. Ban-Ki Moon.

DelTech MUN 2018 was held on 3rd and 4th February. The conference was organised by a secretariat of 16 third year students, belonging to the DelTech MUN society, with Professor Naokant Deo as the faculty advisor and Jatin Tuteja heading it, along the support of second year and first year students.

The four committees that were simulated at the conference were:

- United Nations General Assembly
- United Nations Security Council
- United Nations Commission on the Status of Women
- All India Political Parties Meet.

28.11.18

1. United Nations General Assembly

UNGA saw the participation of about 95 students over the 2 days of conference. The Executive Board began the session by briefing the delegates with the rules of procedure. The Assembly started the formal debate with the delegate of Hungary raising a motion to set up a General Speakers List to discuss the rights of the differently abled. The Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities offers sufficient standards of protection for the civil, cultural, economic, political and social rights of persons with disabilities on the basis of inclusion, equality and non-discrimination. Many delegates quoted this convention and firmly stated that not giving the disabled their rights is a heinous human rights violation. Furthermore, many delegates expressed their concern on the social unacceptance of the differently abled. Social exclusion of persons with disabilities lies at the core of the problem. Countries stressed upon importance to open up job opportunities for the disabled. Additionally, they discussed the importance of proper architectural structures and public transport that enable the disabled to commute easily. The Assembly has unified in goal to provide rights for the differently abled. The General

its

Assembly is doing its best to provide human rights for the disabled and hopes to bring about positive solutions to solve the problem in the committee.

2. United Nations Security Council

The UNSC was a committee with 20 delegates intensively debating and discussing pressing issues. Apart from the very intense and penetrating nature of the UN Security Council, the executive board began the session with an introduction of delegates and an informal session addressing any concerns with rules of procedures delegates may have. However, the Council soon witnessed a transmission into a formal debating session. The first country which was The United States of America, established the general speakers' list. Delegate of Ethiopia said that D.P.R.K.'s (Democratic People's Republic of Korea) possession of Nuclear weapons and the other weapons of mass destruction. It condemns the acts of DPRK of testing nuclear weapons and other weapons. Republic of Korea agreed to the USA's point of view. Furthermore, the Republic of Ethiopia is also imposing ban on the entry of the Delegates from DPRK into its nation.

According to DPRK delegate negotiations are always open from their side.

3. United Nations Commission on the Status of Women

UNCSW was a double-delegate committee with 2 delegates representing each nation and there were about 80 students who participated in this committee. Taking into account the increasing global outrage and the lack of a universal law to address Woman's Reproductive rights with emphasis to abortion, surrogacy and female mutilation of genitals, the CWS engaged in an extremely productive discussion and received a wide outlook and great prospects for a possible better change. The delegate of the Democratic Republic of Congo opened the General Speakers list making by making a strong point about the existing patriarchal system, where the mother gets little importance and her view isn't taken even when it concerns her own life and body. Many of the delegates put forward the existing framework followed in their country with a majority having abortion legalized under conditions concerning the health of the mother or the foetus or a case of sexual harassment. The delegate of Kuwait put forward that Human Genital Mutilation is a practice prevalent and legal in their country and they also believe that abortion should be legalized. The delegate of China threw light of the urgent need to address the various problems and suggested the idea of having a Social Compensation fee.

4. All India Political Parties' Meet

The AIPPM was the Indian committee which was simulated at the conference to discuss politically important issues and debate upon the foreign policies followed by the various political parties of the nation. The committee saw the participation of about 55 delegates representing different portfolios of political leaders of our country. The executive board started the proceedings with an informal session where they answered the queries of delegates regarding standard procedures which were quite helpful to a few delegates who seemed lost as to how chits and points worked. This was followed by a roll call and formal introductory debates by each of the politicians. The bilingual committee started off with delegates supporting their party's stance and policies, defending them and later went on to discuss India's relationships with countries like Russia, USA, China and its neighbours. The delegates focused more on how these changing relationships were having a negative effect on not only India's economy but development and support by the other countries which could have proved quite beneficial. The minister of defence, Mr Nirmla Sitharaman tried to assuage all concerns by stating that Russia and India are in fact partners in various ventures; to which Mr Rahul Gandhi interjected to say that the concern is valid as Pakistan acts as an intermediary for tie improvement between China and Russia. Russia, with its feud with the United States has become economically quite unstable. The only other developed economy that can support Russia is China. While Harsimrat Kaur Badal said "We should restore and realign our ties with Russia", Mehbooba Mufti insisted on bettering ties with USA.

We also contacted the United Nations Information Centre for India & Bhutan to extend their formal support to the conference. As before, the conference attracted a turnout of around 300 students participating as delegates, international press members, executive board members and conference staff.

Also, we had invited some speakers at our conference who had worked in the specified areas and had valuable knowledge and skills. Under their mentorship, students got a chance to learn and grow exponentially. The combined efforts made the conference a success.

INTRODUCTION

“The future of India lies in its villages”

- Mahatma Gandhi

This is a report on the Special Rural Camp organized by National Service Scheme, Delhi Technological University (formerly Delhi College of Engineering) chapter in the village Harchandpur Kalan, Sakit Block (Etah district, UP) from December 27th, 2017 to January 1st, 2018.

This camp was attended by 34 volunteers of NSS-DTU with a mission to bring about ground-level changes in the village and to understand the problems of rural India from the roots. Every NSS volunteer had summoned in their minds to stand up to their motto “Not Me But You”, by striving for selfless service to the village with full dedication and determination. We focussed on certain issues of prime importance such as Open defecation, Hygiene, Education, Career, govt. scheme implementation, etc. by organising various activities in the village.

Harchandpur Kalan is a small village in the Etah district of western Uttar Pradesh with a population of approximately 1500 people. The most common occupations are farming, labour and cattle rearing.

The camp was organised in collaboration with an NGO, Jaago India which is a people’s movement for building leaders among the society. Jaago India has been working for the development of Harchandpur since the past few months.

The volunteers were warmly welcomed with garlands and tilak by the villagers upon visit.

ACTIVITY-BASED LEARNING

INTRODUCTION

One of the main purposes of our visit was to meet with the village children and interact with them by involving them in fruitful and fun activities.

ACTIVITY DETAILS

On the first day of the activity based learning, NSS volunteers went to each classroom and tried to gauge the existing level of students. We were pleasantly surprised to find that the students were as sharp and willing to learn as it gets; with a few exceptionally bright students in each class group.

On the rest of the days, the emphasis was on connecting the ideas studied in school to the real world in both primary and middle school. In junior classes, there were light-hearted activities like identifying pictures and the urban game of up-down. The faces of the little children betrayed their enthusiasm and the joy of coming to school.

As for the higher classes, the volunteers made special efforts to teach techniques that will prove to be helpful to the students while solving all kinds of problems. The students were introduced to some basic ideas of the subjects that will guide them throughout their academic life. One day was dedicated to a very interesting activity of Toy-from-Trash in which the pupils learned how to make interesting stuff from what is practically waste. The toys were designed to illustrate some basic scientific concepts.

We also organised a drawing competition for the children of the village. The joy of using variety of colour pencils, crayons and the innocent attempts of children of drawing their thoughts out, was a mesmerizing scene. The winners of the competition were awarded with prizes from NSS DTU.

IMPACT

The direct impact of our efforts was that the attendance increased significantly on the second day. Student engagement also increased as the activities were specifically designed to be interactive and funny. As per our observation, we suggested to the CDO of Etah about the requirement of teachers for Primary Classes in the school. We also suggested about the exposure of children to district level competitions in various fields like sports, academics, arts, etc. NSS DTU also recommended a brilliant student currently studying in class 7, to be funded by government for better higher education.

INTERACTION WITH VILLAGERS

INTRODUCTION

The volunteers of NSS DTU, full of optimism and the zeal to make a change set foot in Harchandrapur Kalan from house to house with the mission of spreading awareness among the villagers. Some of the major issues we had decided to discuss with the people were- sanitation (status of Open Defecation), status of ration and pension holders, availability of medical facilities, common health issues, educational issues, career opportunities, etc.

ACTIVITY DETAILS

The volunteers visited the village on all the 5 days of their stay for the camp. In the interaction with the villagers, there were many unheard pleads of villagers revealed. They included the problems of drainage in the village, the problems of the differently-abled people in lieu of their pension and facilities, the helplessness of a martyr's old father, the unavailability of proper medical facilities, the shortage of career opportunities and bleak returns from farming.

One of the major aims of our interaction with the villagers was to instil in them, their responsibility towards their own hygiene. Due to government schemes, most of the villagers get dependent on the money offered under Swachh Bharat Scheme and we tried to change this scheme of thought.

The common problems we observed were of unavailability of ration and pension. We duly noted the names of the people who were facing these problems. We also observed, that the villagers started to think of us as "powerful people" who were going to solve all their problems. However, we always clarified to them of our limitations. We clearly made no promises, but yet, we inculcated the ideas of self-reliance in the villagers. Our aim was not to interfere with the processes of the rural governmental and administrative bodies, but to instil the qualities of a responsible free citizen of India in the hearts of the villagers.

IMPACT

With our motivation, some of the villagers started digging ditches for toilet construction. Villagers opened up about their grievances which our volunteers duly noted and presented it to the District Magistrate of Etah in the form of a report and also by showing him around the village. We also revealed our observation of improper construction of toilets in the village which people were unaware of. The feelings of self-reliance getting inculcated in the hearts of villagers were evident when some of them tried to explain their problems to the SDM and CDO of Etah. The improvement of awareness was also evident as we emerged out as ice-breakers between the administration and villagers. We hope, the people would be responsible for their own duties and so would be the authorities.

WALL PAINTING

INTRODUCTION

“Art speaks where words are unable to explain”

An artist has the power to create magic by bringing meaning into people’s lives. Our volunteers set forth to create magic in the lives of school children by wielding their weapon in the form of paint brushes, using their skills and creativity to fight against the various concerns of society. The plain walls of the school building and the boundary walls were selected to be adorned with the colours of life.

ACTIVITY DETAILS

Around 10-15 volunteers along with 2 professional painters from the village participated in this activity. Students of nearby degree college D.I.E.T. had also contributed in it.

A train was conceptualized to be drawn on the right boundary wall, whose each bogie contained paintings portraying our messages on social causes. Paintings displayed Methodology of hand-washing, Usage of Dust-bins, Conservation of drinking water, Importance of Tree-Plantation, Various means of Water Pollution (Rural), Climate change and its impact on human race.

The front wall of the school building was covered with a painting condemning open defecation and promoting usage of toilets. Gandhiji’s portrait symbolizing the Swacch Bharat Abhiyan was drawn beside it.

The front wall of the primary school building was adorned with a painting that included the Hindi alphabet and geometrical shapes, working as a visual cue for children’s learning. The iconic picture promoting Sarva Shiksha Abhiyan was also drawn above.

The front inner boundary wall was adorned with two beautiful caterpillars whose spiracles had names of months and days of the week written on them. The front outer boundary wall paintings included Beti Bachao, Beti Padhao andolan symbol, art against smoking, alcohol abuse.

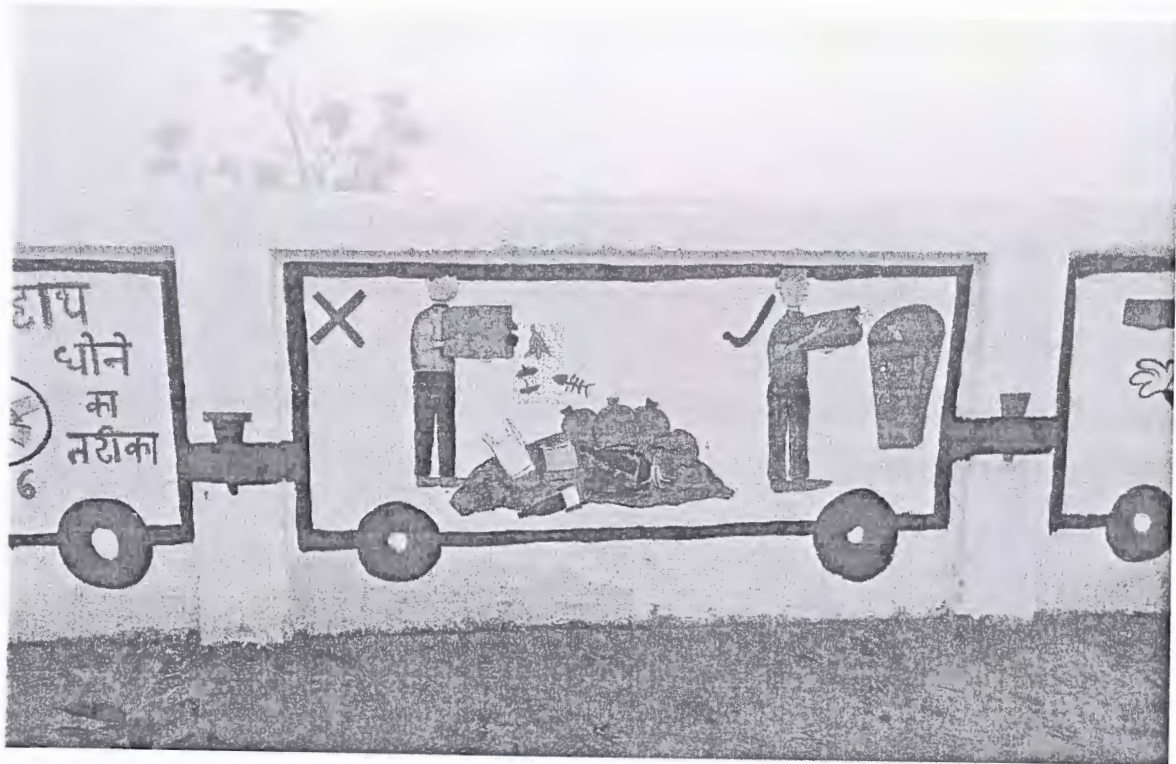

The toilet building which included water taps also was painted with girl and boys figures for respective compartments and another magnificent painting. The inside of the library was painted with children’s favourite cartoon characters like Tom & Jerry, Chhota bheem to make the process of their learning exciting and fun. Slogans relating to education were also written.

NUKKAD NAATAK

INTRODUCTION

"We do on stage things that are supposed to happen off, which is a kind of integrity, if you look on every exit as being an entrance somewhere else."

Theatre is an art of the most primitive form as it literally requires nothing but the artist himself. Thus it is one of the most effective and efficient way to send across a message. Street and stage are two factions of theatre which seem same to eye but are more different than chalk and cheese. Stage requires emotions on the face, while street demands emotions in the voice. In Harichandrapur Kalan the street play team presented their Nukkad Naatak theming on issues like open defecation, personal hygiene, alcohol abuse and education.

ACTIVITY DETAILS

The Nukkad Naatak was shown to the CDO (chief development officer) on 29th of December 2017, when he was visiting the school. It was performed for the villagers at a prime location in the village for all to see. During the visit of the DM(district magistrate) on 31st of December 2017, it was performed as an inaugural event for him from the volunteers.

Spread over about 7-8 minutes, the play shows various characters engaged in many activities which can be harmful for their and the society's well being, indicating their lethargy. Someone doesn't brush their teeth before eating or a mother who touches her child after doing chores without washing her hands. Some scenes also have a strong depiction for a hard-hitting message like a woman berating another for letting her daughter defecate in the open or the narrator vehemently arguing against doing drugs. As a bonus for kids in the audience a scene showing their plight and dreams is acted out, with a message for them never to drop out of school.

Over the course of the play there are many songs and interactive quips incorporated by the actors. There is a narration after every scene to engage the audience and give them a conclusion. Popular songs with changed lyrics are intended to arouse the curiosity of the audience and make them understand the message to be conveyed more easily.

IMPACT

The Nukkad Naatak had a great response from the audience. After watching many performances the kids had picked upon many catch phrases and would recite them before the actors themselves like 'khule me shauch nhi karna chahiye'. Every hard-hitting monologue by the narrators got a rousing applause. When the actors would sing, dance and call upon everyone to see the play it would prove to be effective as it gathered a big audience. With sustained and proper efforts put in by the street play team, they were able to convey the message intended to villagers and children alike.

PLANTATION

"If you have a garden and a library, you have everything you need."

-Cicero

INTRODUCTION

In the sense of these words by the great Roman politician, setting up a library and a garden allowed us to provide the school children with "everything they need". In the spirit of the NSS motto "NOT ME BUT YOU", a garden in the school was our way of giving a lasting gift of nature to the students of today and the future. It is said that a library is only as good as the ambience it offers to the learners and what greater ambience than the serene shades of the marigolds and the roses!

ACTIVITY DETAILS

Over 15 volunteers worked over the day from tilling the soil to digging the holes and watering the freshly planted flowers. We planted over 50 plant saplings covering the boundary of the school ground.

We made special efforts to design the garden in such a way so as to allow it to flourish while not being intrusive to the children's playground nearby thus making use of their engineering scales on the real plane!

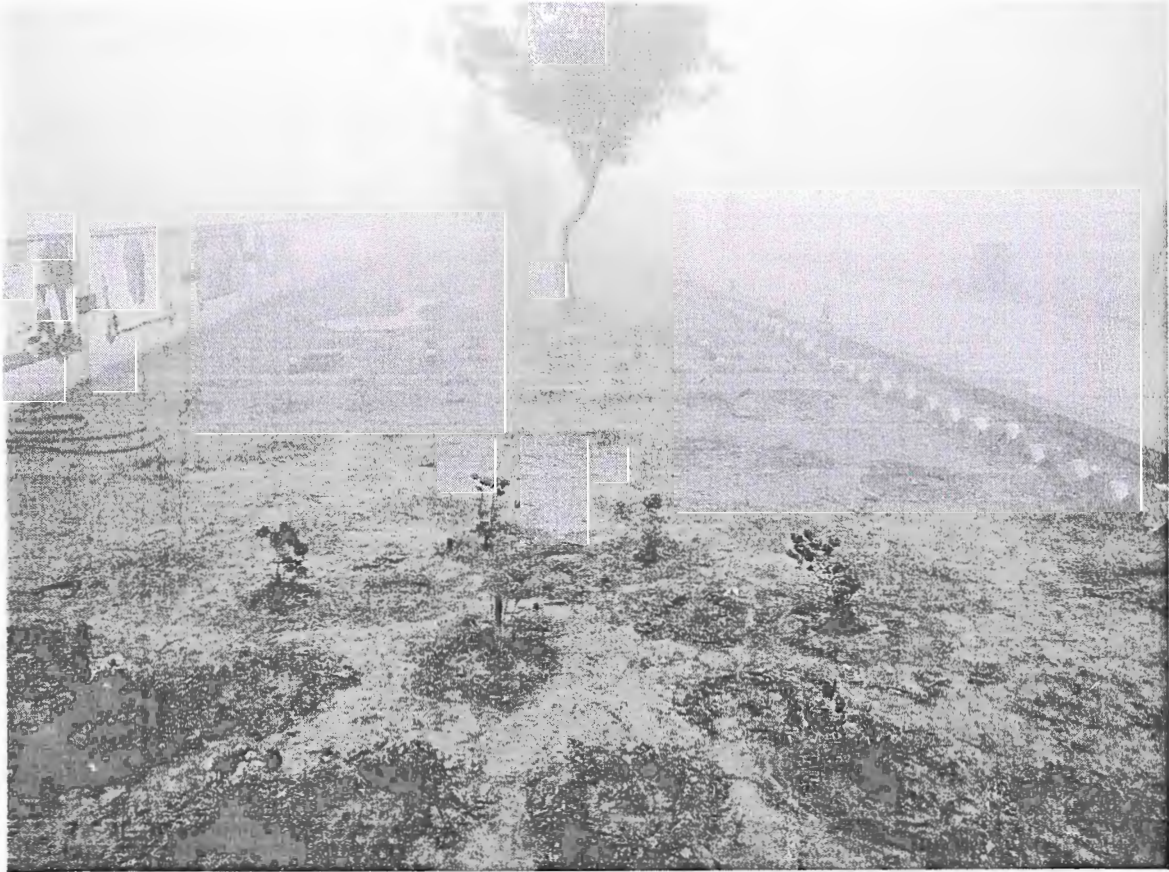

The symmetry in the arrangement attempted to capture the nature's longing for order in the things while the simplicity of the design aimed to appeal to that part of the humans which is left smitten by a thing of beauty.

IMPACT:

The plantation work was one of the most engaging and rewarding activities for the volunteers too as it allowed us to experience the unprecedented joy of installing a plant. It became a landmark in our attempt in the betterment of the school campus. The surrounding of the school with trees and plants would instil the bliss of nature in the hearts of the children, teachers and villagers.

INTERACTIVE SESSION ON SANITATION & HYGIENE

INTRODUCTION

For a nation to be developed, sanitation and hygiene has to be made mandatory in its societies. Ironically, in our country it has been one of the most blatantly ignored issues as we are proceeding into a more sedentary lifestyle. This is an urban factor. Thus the question arises what could be the reason for low sanitation and hygiene in rural areas? One of the reasons attributed to this attitude in villages could be lack of awareness.

As we, the volunteers of NSS DTU, embarked on our journey to bring about a change in Harichandrapur Kalan, we took the task of educating the budding children of the village about sanitation on ourselves.

ACTIVITY DETAILS

On the 30th of December 2017, interactive video sessions were conducted in 3 batches of the school children. The batches were thus divided: classes 1 and 2; classes 3 and 4; classes 5-8.

The students were shown a total of two videos.

The first video (4 minutes) was a promotional cartoon short-film as part of Savlon's 'Swasth India Mission'. It was titled 'Rahul vs Gergy'. The video gives out a strong message to the children about how personal hygiene is important to stay healthy.

The second video (12 minutes) was a cartoon film by Casp-plan project on safe drinking water. By showing real life examples, the video teaches the viewer about how a long handle ladle should be used to take out water from pots, handpumps should be far away from toilets as the groundwater there would be mixed with sewage water and thus would be undrinkable. It shows how the onus of drinking clean and safe water should not be only on the politicians or municipal workers but on the children's parents, society and the children themselves to ensure they consume safe water.

Sanitation videos served the purpose of virtual teaching, whereas our volunteers also practically taught the children to implement hygiene by making them wash their hands with soap before having their mid-day meals in the school premises.

Volunteers getting the children wash their hands on their own before mid-day meal

IMPACT

As the videos were being shown, it was observed that the children were curious and truly interested in learning something new. The students of higher classes were able to relate to situations in their homes and school regarding sanitation and shared their experiences and understanding.

Overall the students expressed satisfaction on seeing the short films and promised to remember the lesson taught and even that they would educate their parents too.

MENSTRUAL HYGIENE PROGRAMME

INTRODUCTION

An estimated 355 million Indian women and girls must find ways to cope with monthly menstrual hygiene. Most of these women either have no access to toilets or are faced with unclean lavatory facilities. Moreover, they usually wait until night time before using public toilets or fields, which exposes them to various forms of physical attacks.

Majority of rural women in India use clothes and rags for feminine hygiene. These materials might predispose women to reproductive tract infections since it may be difficult for them to keep their used napkins clean and free of harmful bacteria.

The NSS-DTU team decided to educate young girls and women of Harchandrapur Kalan (Etah, UP) about menstruation, hygiene and associated taboos with their 'Menstrual Hygiene Programme'.

ACTIVITY DETAILS

8 girl volunteers were involved in the conduction of the programme. There were around 150 attendees present. There were two sessions of the programme conducted.

The programme started with general ice-breaker interaction of the volunteers with the women present. Two videos giving out information regarding the menstruation process, hygiene during periods, necessary diet, methods of sanitation apart from the traditional ones, etc were showed to them. After the video broadcasts, the volunteers catered to the myriad of questions posed by the audience and helped them figure out solutions to problems such as irregularities in the menstruation cycle, UTIs, etc.

Issues such as girls' dropout rates in school right after puberty and myths associated with periods were discussed and the audience was motivated to think beyond it.

It is worthy of mention that the women of the village strongly condemned open defecation and were in full support of construction of toilets in their homes, which had previously been a major issue in the village.

A still from the second session of the programme

IMPACT

The girls and the women opened up to the volunteers about their hidden doubts and fears regarding the topic. As observed by the volunteers, the audience was better aware of their bodies and the natural processes taking place in it after the sessions. They had become more open in discussing their problems related to menstrual hygiene with each other, which is definitely a stepping stone for a healthier and more progressive society.

ALTERNATIVE CAREER COUNSELLING

INTRODUCTION

Career is the path followed or to be followed by an ambitious individual in his lifetime. It summarises the professional journey. For any student it is of utmost importance as he or she always strives to ensure a good future for them and their parents, and career decisions thus become a priority.

Many a times the traditional path is tough and expensive. This discourages many talents. We at NSS DTU believe that everyone should get a chance to showcase their talents and become independent, so we brought a session on 'Alternative careers' for the youth in the village of Harchandrapur Kalan (Etah, UP)

ACTIVITY DETAILS

On 31st of December 2017, after the DM's visit, the session was conducted for the youth, who were informed about the same during visits to the village. The attendees were divided according to their educational qualifications. The groups thus made were: up to class 10th; 10th to 12th; above 12th and up to graduation; above graduation and up to post graduation.

The main problem associated with the youth in the village was that even after being qualified they had low job opportunities. To address this, NSS-DTU volunteers came up with many alternative careers and educational opportunities. From Self-Help Groups to ITI (Industrial Training Institute), many options were discussed with the attendees. Information on diploma courses, Skill India Mission, Polytechnic institute, short term courses and self-employment opportunities were shared. Computer courses and diploma courses were seriously discussed too. As a bonus for women, careers like interior designing and fashion designing were discussed.

Our volunteer emphasising on the importance of continuing one's education

IMPACT

All the youth who were engaged showed great enthusiasm in trying to understand a new concept. One key observation was that there were more educated women than men in attendance. Self-Help Groups and self-employment was the favourite amongst all. The information regarding how to access forms for admission to various programs and exams was properly relayed. A short introduction to YouTube was also given a great response. In the end the names of certain interested individuals were noted by the volunteers who wanted to learn computer basics and certain skills through Skill India Mission.

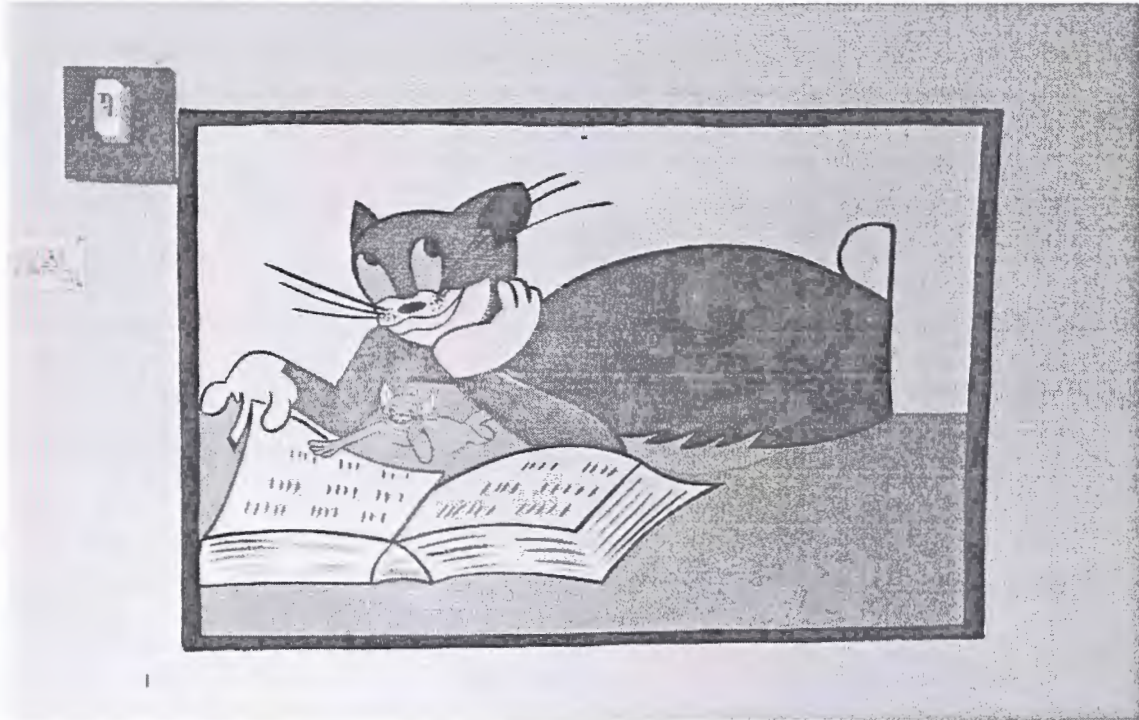

MISCELLANEOUS ACTIVITIES

Library

Our volunteers established a library in the school in one of its unused rooms. About 300 books were installed which were donated by DTU students in the 'Joy Of Giving' week conducted in the college by NSS DTU. The categories of the books included academics, general knowledge, dictionaries, biographies for children, colouring books, etc. The academic books ranged from class 1 to 10 in various publications in both English and Hindi medium. The library was also painted with interactive pictures of cartoons with numbers and alphabets.

Sports Equipment

NSS-DTU had donated various sports materials like Football, Volleyball, Badminton kit, Cricket kit to the school for the children to use. It was observed that the children started staying back after school hours and played with the materials donated, hence inculcating in them a routine of regular exercise and nurturing them to compete in the huge arena of sports competitions out there.

Recycled Notebooks

We distributed about 200 notebooks to the children of the government school of Harchandrapur Kalan. These notebooks were made by recycling old newspapers, used practical files, old exam answer-sheets, etc. collected by NSS DTU under their “Recycle Today” project in association with the NGO “Jaagruti”. We were delighted to see the happy faces of the children to get the notebooks. We also donated about 100 notebooks to the school for further distribution to the needful.

Notice Board

A large notice board was installed in the school premises by the volunteers of NSS DTU. The school teachers appreciated the importance of the notice board and have put the notice board to good use.

Artworks made by children displayed on the notice board donated by NSS DTU to the school

Rangoli Competition

We organized a Rangoli competition for the village youth which observed an overwhelming response. Beautiful patterns of colour on the ground of the school verandah showed the hidden artistic talent of the youth of the village. The winners of the competition were awarded with prizes by NSS DTU handed over by the DM, Etah.

CONCLUSION

For people living in the luxury of a metropolitan city like Delhi, a few of whom hadn't even visited any village before, the rural camp turned out to be an exhilarating and an entirely different experience. The volunteers had many of their preconceptions upturned as they observed the world from a rural perspective. Be it adapting to a shabby habitat, spearheading activities on their own, taking responsibility of themselves and their fellow teammates, forming new connections with people, the volunteers gave in their best even after stepping out of their comfort zones.

Each activity performed, instilled in the volunteers working for it interpersonal as well as professional skills like planning, decision-making, problem-solving, leading and coordinating with a team.

Experiencing village life, cathartic for sure, was also an important stepping stone. As the volunteers taught the students, they realised their own potential to become teachers. The Nukkad Naatak team felt satisfaction at having spread an important message, as did the volunteers who painted the school walls and library. Seeing the awestruck faces of the villagers and officials when they saw the transformed school, the pride of the plantation team knew no bounds.

The different activities taken up by the volunteers worked as catalysts to not only change the thinking of the villagers but also helped bridge the huge social gap between the village and the city.

We as volunteers have performed to the best of our potential. We can just hope our efforts have made everyone realise their prerogative to carry forward the good work.

TEAM RAFTAAR, DTU

Introduction

Team Raftaar is a team of undergraduate students who share a common vision i.e. to engrain the dynamic concept of Human Powered Vehicles in our day to day lives and thus, promote sustainable modes of transportation for a better world ahead.

We compete in the ASME's Human Powered Vehicle Challenge in both India and the USA where universities across the globe design, manufacture, innovate and finally, race their Human Powered Vehicles and are evaluated on the basis of their safety, robustness, speed, innovation and more importantly our ability to engage the necessary clout to push the concept of Human Powered Vehicles to new realizable heights. For the same, we design a fully Carbon Fibre faired recumbent bicycle to optimize the aerodynamic and drivetrain related traits and which has bolstered our capabilities to achieve speeds in excess of 70 Kmph purely out of Human Power. For making our vehicle achieve the vision of practical applications, our Electronics team made a Landing Gear Suggestion System (LGSS) for a vehicle that ensures safety along with optimal performance.

This year the HPVC North America East was held at Penn State University, Pennsylvania from April 13th to 15th where we secured First place in Innovation and Fifth place in Design. Also, the HPVC Asia Pacific competition was held at DTU from March 16th to 18th where we secured overall Joint-Runner up position including the unbeaten First place in both male and female drag race.

Delhi Technological University

Yuvaan'18

Yuvaan'18 envisioned fun with literature for everyone after the success of the premier Yuvaan'17. With a footfall of over 40k, it became the biggest youth literature fest in Northern India. Yuvaan'18 with the theme, "An elixir of life", had something for everyone: authors, standup comedy, slam poets and galore! We had a greater number of formal and highlighted events. The formal events were curated with the intention of making it a fun event for all participants and to remove the preconceived notions of literature being drab. With conventional events such as the debate, creative writing, slam poetry and more, we had interesting twists on others such as Shipwreck, Socratic circle which tested the spontaneity and creativity along with their vocabulary. The highlighted events were a huge success. UnErase Poetry, the spoken word establishment which went viral online last year, performed, pulling the crowd in around DTU at the OAT. Simar Singh, Ramneek Singh and YahyaBootwala moved the audience with their soulful art. PoshakDua, the brilliant mind reader and magician sent the crowds in a tizzy with his mindblowing illusions. DurjoyDatta, one of the nation's bestselling young adult authors and a proud DCE alumni, visited his alma mater for a candid talk show named, "Homecoming", making the audience relate with DTU and inspiring budding writers. The curtain call was with the international qawwali sensation, the Nizami Brothers. A perfect end of a winter evening: the crowds swaying and clapping rhythmically to the soothing qawalli, warming our hearts. Yuvaan'18 proved it is a legacy to be carried forward for the future batches of Delhi Technological University, thus leaving a mark on the literary circles in Delhi NCR.

EDITOR'S NOTE

Seventh-grade mathematics turned a hitherto mostly simple, even harmless subject into a juggernaut full of new terms, concepts and theories. Among these many terms, we were introduced to one that impacted the proceedings of nearly every chapter. This term was Infinitesimal Change. Every concept taught us the immense impact these infinitesimal changes can have on the smallest of quantities, when put together. Every small change we undergo in our life similarly impacts us, accumulating over time.

The first piece of code you write, your first rendezvous with a new software or even your first class taking a subject you instinctively like, initiate changes that shape your personality, your life and your future. While we are inherently resistant to change, the feeling of doing something new often supersedes our instincts. One change leads to another, and before you know it, you have a direction to go in!

The differential of the change has also increased as we experience our surroundings change rapidly in ever-smaller periods of time intervals. We shifted from playing pinball on our old desktops to smartphones in less than a decade, and we see the world gearing up for the fourth industrial age. We are the generation that has been experiencing the most expeditious changes in technology. To be a cog in this revolution we need to learn to adapt and acclimatise ourselves to these changes by learning new skills.

The 44th Edition explores these infinitesimal changes that make us who we are. The news sections celebrate the new heights that our University reached in the last three months as a consequence of efforts put in by faculty members and students, from pioneering research done by the faculty and students to various laurels that teams and societies won. All these achievements are small positive changes that take our University higher. The articles penned by the team explore the idea of changes happening in the world, from music to films to changes right here in the university.

At the end of your four years, when you receive your degree from this age-old institution, the piece of paper you receive will represent the sum result of all the small changes that occurred during your life at DTU. As ever, it's time to get up and change.

FROM THE DESK OF THE VICE CHANCELLOR

Delhi Technological University, entering its 77th year continues to be one of the most reputed Universities in the country. Each year, the best students take admission through the coveted Joint Entrance Examination. This year, the newly inducted students were welcomed to the University by Mr. Arvind Kejriwal, Hon'ble Chief Minister, Delhi, and several other dignitaries. The induction programme was a huge success with the students being ushered into a new phase of their lives.

The ongoing placement season has just cemented the University's tryst with the best companies. Students have bagged internships and placements from some of the most renowned companies in the world like Amazon, Uber, Flipkart, Adobe, Texas Instruments, Samsung, Citibank, etc.

A huge milestone was achieved by us as a university when DTU enrolled its first batch of B.Des. students at the Department of Design. A beautiful Art and Design competition was also organised at the DoD which saw a huge participation of enthusiastic students. The Department aims to foster creativity and inculcate the true spirit of art in the students and take the vision of the University to greater heights.

The Health Centre has also witnessed an upgrade in facilities and will now cater to more than just basic medical needs of the students. The University has also taken an initiative towards tackling the issue of depression and anxiety by providing the students with a counselor.

East Campus has been active in the frame too. USME helped organise a couple of seminars that saw an overwhelming response from both students and faculty. Into its second year now, the graph of growth is continuously rising.

The University has come a long way since its inception and the students have always been the torchbearers of change. I wish all students the very best in their endeavours and hope they take the University to higher pinnacles.

Messages From The Pro VCs

Prof. S. K. Garg

Prof. Anu Singh Lather

Over its long history, Delhi Technological University has continuously worked to excel in all fields, be it academic or non-academic. The age-old reputation of DTU as an institute of academic excellence is self-illustrating. This all-round commitment is exemplified by the varsity hosting the inter-collegiate sports fest, Triquetra. The University has made continual strides in co-curricular activities. The electives offered to first years in the present academic session have been successful. These electives have enabled students to take part in co-curricular activities, including various sports, and gain course credits through them. The University is fast growing towards being one of the premier institutes for higher education in the country. With each passing year, the existing educational facilities at the University transform themselves the better. Simultaneously, the existing infrastructure is supplemented by expanding it, to make it more suitable for the annual influx of academically sound students of various streams and fields.

Delhi Technological University has retained its place as one of the topmost choices of up and coming engineering students and as the years pass, will also see similar trends in the various other streams introduced in the University. The addition of the East Campus has helped in broadening the horizons for students of both campuses, as they interact and expand their knowledge sphere. A series of guest lectures and interactions were organised by USME DTU which saw a positive feedback from all the students. Various subject based conferences and seminars on ground-breaking technologies also played a crucial part in enhancing the personality and comprehensive abilities of the students. DTU is always working towards creating an environment for its students which provides them with holistic development. The University gives its students enough freedom to pursue their passion for the various extra-curricular activities that the University has to offer. We are always accepting feedback from our students, ensuring that valid requests are taken into consideration and implemented promptly.

The distance between Dilli and Delhi is the same as the emotional gap between being left awestruck at a sunset dotted with skyscrapers and being left mesmerised with mystical monuments that stir your soul.

Dilli is littered with souvenirs of the past with buildings issuing their own singular statements of grace, while Delhi is cocooned in exceptional banality that routinely aggravates the burdens of a dying cityscape.

INTERVIEWS

PROF. DAVE PARRY AUCKLAND UNIVERSITY OF TECHNOLOGY

DTU Times interviewed Prof. Dave Parry, Head, Department of Computer Science, Auckland University of Technology, New Zealand, who was at DTU for a one day international seminar on Recent Trends in Big Data Analytics.

Is the surge in the computer science industry in India, been reflected in New Zealand as well?

Not so much. I think it's starting to come back a little bit now. There wasn't so much interest in computer science five to ten years ago, maybe. Most people who later pursued computer science came from some other course, like, I came from physics. So, a lot of people who do computer science have actually done something else beforehand.

How has your background in physics facilitated your research in computer science?

I think that physics uses a lot of mathematics. It is a very good tool to analyze the sensibility of your solution. That's very useful in CS especially when you're dealing with data because reaching a solution does not mean it is true. So, it helps to check the authenticity of the solution.

Healthcare is not a domain one would usually associate with computer science. What specifically does your research in healthcare comprise?

Healthcare has a large amount of data and there have been a lot of issues in dealing with that data and using it to make better decisions, treatment, and diagnosis. I'm particularly interested in how one can use computer systems and data to avoid making errors. I think there's a strong link there.

How does operating out of New Zealand, which is not connected to a mainland, hinder or facilitate your research?

New Zealand is a remote place, it's a long way from anywhere and it has a small population of 4 million people. There are not a lot of large companies like we have in India. So, one of the things that we have to look at is how to collaborate with other countries, to work together and how we can use the certain areas that we have and make the most of them. Hence, having an excellent instant communication is very important. If I was the in charge, I would say that putting up high-speed broadband networks is the top investment that you can make for developing computing.

A number of students do not consider research a viable career option, opting for regular jobs instead. How would you encourage such students to take up research?

A great advantage of computing is that a lot of students find good jobs which is why they do not want to necessarily go into research but I think that a lot of students develop curiosity in their jobs. The most important thing is to be passionate about what you really want to do. I am very flexible with people moving back and forth. Also, fortunately, New Zealand has quite a few students who are actually working in a job and studying for research.

How important is it to know the specific area you want to research in?

I think that there are three important things- first being able to recognize yourself. You must know whether you like writing programs, doing analysis or developing algorithms. Second most important thing is who you're going to work with- a team or a supervisor that you're going to have an effective collaboration with. Lastly, you need to know what exactly you're going to work on. If you're using the skills and techniques that you enjoy using, then you'll definitely go a long way.

PROF. PHILIP DAVIES ASTON UNIVERSITY, UNITED KINGDOM

DTU Times interviewed Prof. Philip Davies, Aston University, United Kingdom, who was at DTU for an international workshop on Networking of Technology and Education for Sustainable Development.

How has sustainable development in India and Europe progressed differently?

Europe has a higher GDP growth and lower pollution index. In India, economic growth is the priority while in the UK the reduction of greenhouse gases and the well being of the environment is being prioritized.

What are your thoughts about the problem of overpopulation in India?

I think the problem is reaching a saturation point and it needs to be controlled. As you know high population growth tends to go together with the rural economy and poverty. In rural economies, families tend to have lots of children because they think it is beneficial to have more children to ensure the future of their family. Hence, with good education and gender equality, the population growth automatically goes down.

Being British, how do you think has colonization affected the development of the nation?

I think colonization has a negative impact on any nation. It changes the natural structure of the country. The biggest legacy of the British colonization in India was the partition between India and Pakistan which remains a problem to this date because of the unrest in the Kashmir region. So colonization has definitely hindered the development of this nation. But luckily India has recovered well from the aftermaths of the colonization because it is much more developed than ex African colonies like Somalia and Nigeria. And I am positive that the ongoing trend of innovation in the world will carry the world out of the colonization fallout towards a more sustainable future.

As the Head of the Water Department at the Aston University, what do you think about the role of water as an alternative source of energy?

Wastewater can be used to cultivate bio-energy resources and water can also help in the production of hydrogen gas which is a fuel. We can recover a lot from wastewater. Biochemical fuel cells can be used to harvest energy from water. So, energy can be harnessed efficiently from water resources.

How important is harnessing water resources in sustainable development?

I think it's crucial because water is an absolute necessity. It is the most important resource. For a country like India which is much of an inland country with huge landmass with many big cities thousands of kilometers away from the sea, if the cities don't recycle wastewater, where will they get the water from? Wastewater recycling is very practical and essential. It's not really the technology but it's the investment that toughens up the arrangement of technology for this process.

How can the engineers contribute to sustainable development?

They can make a huge effect because it is changes in technology that transform economies ultimately. So the moment there is a big revolution in information and communication technologies in India, it could be a big way to revolutionize the development.

Do you have any message for students of DTU?

Yes, you should keep an eye on networking and maintain good contacts with your fellow alumni and teachers because that will be very valuable to you in the next few years.

MR. SAURABH JAIN VICE PRESIDENT, PAYTM

DTU Times interviewed Mr. Saurabh Jain, Vice President, Paytm who was at DTU as a keynote speaker for the Delhi Section Student Congress 2018 (DSC), organised by IEEE Delhi Section and IEEE DTU.

With other online wallets trying to win customers, how does Paytm manage to stay on top of such tough competition?

The differentiating factor is that most of our management team and our founder is from a small town city, and when you come from a tier 2 to tier 3 town, you know what India is. One is India and one is Bharat, and all our competitors are basically US multinationals they only know what is India, what Bharat is. That is we have an edge over them.

What do you think are the challenges faced by organisations that depend on digital marketing and what are the future prospects of it?

Digital Marketing is becoming very important these days because you have digital products for everything and you have to promote them. I came across a case study recently that a large share of what the startups spend is digital marketing, making it the number one expense for all the startups. Its growing into a very big thing, and everyone should have a strong hold of it. You should learn it even if you're an engineer, because if you're in a product based company, you have to do some sort of digital marketing within your job indefinitely.

Students in-campus, nowadays aim to get the best of the best internship opportunity at the best company. Where do you think maximum learning is done, at a company working as an intern, or by publishing research papers on the preferred topic?

One should work in a company, especially in a startup. That's the best thing nowadays. Research papers can also be published during holiday time but I do think that one should focus more on practical experience. Also, one should do research for the benefit of the common man. I think most research paper writers do not think in that way, they do it as an addition to their resume.

What advice do you have for the students wanting to learn digital marketing?

Key to learning digital marketing is to start a startup or join a small one, because you get to learn things like digital marketing in a startup everyday. Someone around you is already doing it. So if you want to learn digital marketing, joining a small startup is the best option.

PROF. RAJESH ROHILLA HEAD, TRAINING & PLACEMENT DEPARTMENT

DTU Times interviewed Prof. Rajesh Rohilla, Head, Department of Training and Placement and Professor, Department of Electronics and Communication Engineering.

What all encompasses in the job of Head of Training and Placements department? How important is the role of a Placement Coordinator in the placement process?

The role of the Head of the Training and Placement Department consists of defining the placement policy, selecting the Placement Coordinators, identifying the prospective employers, inviting them for campus hiring and internship. He has to finalise the schedule of visiting companies and provide them with all the assistance needed. He has to ensure that the maximum number of students are getting placed, and are getting handsome salary package consistent with their capabilities. DTU has a rich legacy in terms of alumni base and the same must be explored to the fullest for getting a large number of recruiters to the campus.

There are only a handful of core companies of various branches including and not limited to ECE, EE, ME and CE that visit the campus, due to which the students resort to a Non-Technical job. How will you tackle such a problem?

There's a lack of interest among students in their core subjects. Choice-based Credit System (CBCS) gives the opportunity to choose advanced subjects in their area. With a better understanding of their branch subjects, the students would definitely be inclined towards technical jobs. We are trying to reach out to more and more core companies for better placement prospects of all branches. At the same time, we are also exploring the possibility of collaboration for joint research/project work. With relevant projects, core companies will find our students since they seek students with in-depth domain knowledge.

What changes do you plan to bring about during your tenure as the Head of Training and Placements department?

The first initiative we have undertaken is allowing B.Tech. (Evening) students to participate in the placement process as well. We will also focus on enhancing the placement opportunities for M.Tech. and MBA students. This time, we will also try to make provisions for placement for Ph.D. scholars. We will resort to our strong alumni network for bringing relevant recruiters. We plan to explore the possibility of collaborations with industry for lab development, projects, and specialised training programs in various areas and in tune with the current technology trends. This will be helpful in taking up industry relevant projects. Apart from this, we also intend to tie-up with universities and research laboratories for the purpose of offering internships.

What message would you like to give to the students of DTU, for better placement opportunities?

It is my personal suggestion that students must start working on their soft skills and personality development right from their first year since this is a long process. Expertise in technical domain knowledge takes comparatively lesser time than the development of life skills. Secondly, the students must identify which field they want to pursue, be it technical or non-technical, and start working towards it early. You don't need to be a master of the subject, but your concepts in the subject should be thoroughly clear.

During the placement process, always have a positive attitude. You shouldn't get disheartened on initial few failures. Stay motivated, and you'll ace the placements. Strive for excellence, and you'll eventually attain success.

ANANT SHARMA BRONZE MEDALIST, ASIAN CHAMPIONSHIP, XINXIANG, CHINA

DTU Times interviewed Anant Sharma, 4th year, Computer Engineering who won a Bronze Medal at the Asian Championship for Lawn Bowls held in Xinxiang, China

Who introduced you to lawn bowls and what got you hooked to this game?

I did my schooling from DPS RK Puram, which had 2 Lawn Bowl greens in the sports complex. This amazing journey started when our coach, PE Teacher at DPS RKP, Commonwealth Medalist introduced me to this game during 8th grade. To the untrained eye, this game might not seem as exciting as other sports, but the amount of concentration and strategizing required in Lawn Bowls makes it one of a kind.

What future does this game have in India according to you?

Lawn Bowling Federation of India is in talks with the Olympics Association to get this game included in the upcoming Olympics. Lawn Bowl is already present in the Commonwealth Games and has brought numerous medals. Each year, players from more than 14 states participate in National Games as well as a separate National Lawn Bowls Championship. The game is gaining popularity in India and participation is increasing every year. Steps to improve the infrastructure for the game are being taken across the country.

What is your next stop and how are you preparing for it?

Winning the Bronze Medal for India in the Asian Championship feels great. Our next target will be the Birmingham 2022 Commonwealth Games. In the meantime, we also hope to represent Delhi in the coming National Games (Goa '19). As far as practice is concerned, we are day scholars and so we have to utilise our time wisely. The final year has been kind, we've been lucky to get this extra time to participate in the Asian Championship without losing much of the studies.

What are some of the biggest hurdles you faced while preparing for this championship and how did you tackle them?

Managing the university and practice simultaneously was tough. We used to come to college, attend some labs and lectures and then go straight for a three-hour practice session. And then there were mid-semester examinations to add pressure. But all the hard work was worth it when the Indian Flag was raised during the medal ceremony.

Nowadays many students get lost in academics and ignore their talent. So how important do you think it is for oneself to recognize their true calling?

Academics are very important without a doubt. However, one should always try not to completely eclipse the extracurriculars and ignore one's talent. If a person tries to manage his time well and pursue his/her talent along with academics, it will always act as the icing on the cake.

What is your message for other students who are sports enthusiasts?

A close match even if lost, can teach a person what he may not learn in the entire course of ethics in a semester, if played with the right spirit. One should not neglect sports just because we may not need it in our professional lives. Sportsmanship is never lost, be it on the field or a conference room.

MAJOR GENERAL (RETD.) P.K. SEHGAL

DTU Times interviewed Major General (Retd.) P.K. Sehgal, who was at DTU for an interactive session.

What are your thoughts on a career in defense for the youth of the country?

At the time when my elder brother and I joined the services, we were very bright students. Defense career was our first option. The highest level of heads and hearts used to opt for these services. It is a sad thing that today it has become a career of last resort. Students take it up when they have exhausted all their opportunities. There is a population of 1.25 billion in the country, yet there is a shortage of 15-20% of officers in the Air Force which will have cascading implication in the future. We are only looking for people with the highest head. A small mistake, and numerous lives will be lost. If an equipment is not handled correctly the defense will have to incur a loss of 20-30 crores and the replacement will not come into service for at least 30 years. So under these circumstances, we cannot make compromises, we are looking for people who can endure such pressure. The integrity of a nation is at stake.

According to you, what are the internal challenges faced by the Indian Army?

There are huge challenges as far as the internal dynamics are concerned. Firstly, the armed forces are structured to fight the wars that were fought in the Second World War. The army needs to be restructured to fight the network-centric warfare of the 21st century. It requires a huge amount of change at the top-level. After the Kargil War in 1999, remedial and peripheral recommendations have been made. Although bureaucracy has failed to implement major recommendations. Saying that we have an integrated ministry of defense is not precisely correct. All services are functioning virtually in an environment of their own. There is a lack of coordination and intelligence sharing and gathering between the army, the air force and the navy which in turn leads redundancy of work. As a result, a huge amount of money is being wasted. If all this becomes integrated, we can save phenomenally.

Secondly, today the biggest threat to the armed forces is the cyber threat which poses a grave danger to the nation. Even today attempts to tweak our water, transport and power distribution systems are being made which, if not dealt with properly, will prove chaotic. Even before the first bullet is fired, should it ever take place, there will be chaos within the country as we will be defenseless.

Thirdly, the space-based command system is a reality. We've been talking about cyber and space command for a very long time. Now would be the right time to work in this direction. Moreover, modernization in the defense system is something that we have failed to follow, steps should be taken in that direction as well.

What is your perspective on women in armed forces being made eligible for the permanent commission and how fruitful do you think it will prove to be?

It is extremely important to keep up with the times. All over the world, women are being empowered. As far as India is concerned 49.5% of its population is women. Presently, only 8-10% of this population is working. If India has to turn around and find a place of its own in accordance with its demographic, geographic, economic and military crowd, it has to empower women. I think it's a very appropriate and properly timed decision.

Hostel Life in Different Epochs

Rishabh Chaurasia, 1st year, COE
Mandeep Singh, 1st year, COE

Raj, Rishika and Ruhu are three youngsters who have to leave all their comforts and shift into the hostels of Bawanaland. Raj is a small-town boy from Bihar of 1980s. Rishika is a modern, present-day middle class girl of 2018 from Delhi and Ruhu is a rich lad hailing from the splendours of South Mumbai of 2040.

Raj regrets the fact that he couldn't get a college closer to his home. Aware of the truth, that he will be coming back to his home only after a year, he takes a step out of his doorstep into a world devoid of his loved ones. He promises to write a letter every week and spend less than 30 rupees each month. His parents, teary-eyed yet smiling give him their blessings, and as the train starts rolling, he realizes that he has to embark on this journey, all alone. The only thing that keeps him going is the thought of the smile and joy on his mother's face, the pride in his father's eyes when he will receive his engineering degree.

With several promises (including video calling everyday) and dreams (to grab that 1 cr. package), along with some tears (and a powerbank in her hand), Rishika hugs her parents one final time before settling in the hostel. Now, her roommates are to be her new family, her hostel mates are to be her new friends, and the college is to be her new home.

Fast forward a month, she loves the freedom and independence she has been getting but there are certain obstacles too! Limited by her budget, she cannot choose to ignore the mess food and order from outside everyday, nor can she stay out after 10 for a bash (at least legally).

Coming straight out of South Mumbai, Ruhu expected not much but only a private bedroom, an attached convenience and a pool in his hostel. Of course, his expectations were met, but the mess still didn't serve Italian or Caribbean on weekends. That wasn't a concern for him though, as MicMac's™ Herbed- Spice Lasagne put him at peace. When it came to choosing between Starbucks' Bawana Chip Frappuccino and Maggi Baba's good ol' Masala Chai, the latte-r always won. Ruhu did promise his parents to hyperloop back at least once a week, though it's another story that he returned only when his room's temperature controller failed or when he was completely fed up (quite literally) with the bland sushi of the mess.

The complexities in different timelines pose different problems of living in a hostel, but few things never change. Creating long-lasting relations with your partners-in-crime, hating on the mess food, having midnight celebrations involving expensive treats and cheap drinks, watching movies and talking on nothing and almost everything, fighting for the silliest of reasons and forgetting them the very next morning, missing parents (and their pampering during sickness) are some of the many things that all have in common, irrespective of the timeline or the location. Rightly, all of it makes hostel life the best phase of our lives.

THE 3 KIDS WHO CHANGED MUSIC

Shrey Padhi, 2nd year, PIE

In the summer of 1986, a group of high school buddies, Rob, Shoji, and Frank set out for one of the most remarkable musical journeys, one which would take the whole world on a crazy trip. It all started with the heartbreak of losing another close friend, when these three, and Alphonse, whose face was no funnier than the clown of their local circus, were in high school, frustrated from the science stream subjects they had, annoyed at the teachers for asking assignments after they procrastinated it till the morning school bell, and where they couldn't be more carefree about their marks.

In those days, they became close friends by just sharing music through MySpace. It was all Rob's idea, to perform on Alphonse's funeral on that rainy day. Their passion, love, and energy brought everyone gathered to tears on that rainy day. Their unorthodox constant rhythm technique was something which got the attention of many locals, who begged them to perform on open mics. Five years later, the band Evolution was credited with the creation of a whole new genre evolved from Alternative Rock, the Grunge music.

Rob and Shoji had decided to do something completely different for the year 2000. They had planned to fuse the very popular Electronic Music with Alternative Rock tunes, with just one goal in mind, the prestigious Grammy award. With the use of rented synthesizers, in Rob's backyard, the band members started experimenting. Rock music was slowly dying then, so this was one of the only ways for them to stay relatable. Failing to do so would end with them on the streets. Their album track, 'I'm out', which they recorded after Frank said so before leaving the band, had topped the charts in the US.

In later years, the band was commercialized heavily due to their global popularity. Evolution would sell out the biggest of the biggest arenas, from New York's Madison Square Garden to London's Manchester Arena when they could perform.

They began to get very tired, performing day-in and out. Rob felt that this way the band would not be able to create something new and fall behind as they did in the 90s. He was the creative genius of the band and one of the two founding members who was holding the band together. He was always the quiet observer and had always appreciated something different. With all the tours that Evolution was going on, away from family many times, there was no time left to create anything new. This got Rob really frustrated. He felt like he was in school again, being controlled by his teachers, who he never liked.

On the day Evolution got their well-awaited Grammy, only Shoji went on-stage to collect the award. It was two days after the frustrated mind of the creative genius Rob gave in to the thoughts of suicide. The fast paced, money-driven music industry had taken another life.

If we were a Movie

Anjali, 3rd Year, CE

Our life undergoes a complete overhaul when we knock the doors of college. Here is what it might look like from behind the lenses of a camera if we were a movie in making...

Landing in DTU must have left most of you with no choice but to have school memories of less friends and more books. And when you looked at a couple in school, you couldn't help but wonder 'Jaane Kyun Log Pyaar Karte Hain?', sigh and drown back in your books. From then, to introducing yourself to every girl as 'Mere Dost Mujhe Majnu Bulaate Hain!', you do come a long way!

You're in Electrical and the one good thing that you wished for was to have a Circuit like Munna does, who'd settle you in hostel. But alas, you find yourself playing Ranbir from Wake Up Sid instead while moving beds and putting curtains with your Sherlock posters compensating for the lack of aesthetics.

And how can we miss – the nostalgia of home! Did you ever know what it felt like to miss your parents before you shifted to hostel? And, go back home to your mom's food after days and finally realize the feeling behind people singing 'Yeh Toh Sach Hai Ki Bhagwan Hai' for their parents. You conclude that 'Hum Sath Sath Hain' was not an exaggeration after all!

Suddenly, your social circle inflates much like becoming Laxman from Ram in Main Hoon Na with the exception that Ms. Chandni is nowhere to be found!

From reaching out for the alarm clock's Subah Hogayi Mamu, to nights when you felt Ki Naina, Kaash Is Raat Ki Subah Kabhi Na Ho... daytime memories of school turn into nights that you won't forget in college.

But sadly, even the best of movies come to an end and before you even realize, Kabhi Na Beetein Chamkeele Din becomes a thing of the past. Now comes the time to move on to Rocket Singh from being Rancho, and it's another transition that you gear up for!

Tanmay Singh

DTU in an Alternate Universe

Priyansh Soni, 2nd year, COE

The day started as I woke up unsettled with the controller still unearthly wrapped around me from last night's gaming session. Nonetheless, I grabbed my yellow-coloured-Skullcandy and headed to college. I was already having a nagging presentiment of something worse as the cacophony of 10-rupee sawari could no longer be heard. Hesitant, I still took the 879 for the college and grabbed a seat quickly.

I decided on grabbing my usual at HPMC and I sipped on my masala Nimbu Pani only to notice that my HPMC juice corner is now Apka Apna Deol's Pvt. Ltd. with Abhay Deol as the brand ambassador for their Oreo shakes. I was impressed at the idiosyncrasy but benumbed at how it all ended up like this since the last time I attended classes.

To avoid any further revelations, I started walking nonchalantly with my ear-splitting hum towards the OAT. I heard something similar to the chime played by very, very ancient clocks and lifted my head up only to see that the clock in the clock tower sounded the hours distinctly audible to even the ones performing Forging in the Workshop. I qualified that as daydreaming and decided to rush off to class.

As I was bursting in my class, I overheard a bunch of students complaining about how Electrical kids don't have the heebie-jeebies about a plethora of pending assignments and practicals. Bewildered enough, I knew now that I was either very sleep-deprived or very hungry; trusting my guts for the latter, I headed to Micmac for Chandan Bhaiya's Rajma-chawal, credited with the supernatural power to fix everything.

I saw a poster of Kabali 2 starring Chandan Bhaiya as the antagonist opposite Rajinikanth. I felt every bit of the garam rajma slide down my oesophagus as I tried to grasp what I had just seen. At this point, I knew I had seen enough and despised everyone who'd told me to trust my guts, and rushed to the main gate.

As I walked past the trees, everything turned hazy like the helmet of someone driving through the fog in Delhi winters, and the roads seemed as empty as the Maal road past 11 P.M. As I was about to reach the main gate, I saw a Maruti 800 slowly come towards me and rush in through me. Last I remember is lying in Maggi Baba's arms, and the world seemed at peace. I recall a mystical figure pulling his hood back on and then came the feeling of being sucked by something so powerful that even my Patronus couldn't save me.

My clock was chiming. I woke up feeling unsettled and was wrapped in my controller. I still had to finish my assignment and rush to college.

अमृतसर का रावण

लोकेश नारायण, द्वितीय वर्ष, आई.टी

रावण को देखा है हमने रामायण में
गायब होना और फिर अन्य दिशा से हमला करना
ये छल-कपट तो पहले से ही थी उसके चाल में।
जो अमृतसर में हुआ, शायद ये उसी पापी का एक जाल है
हम एक दिशा में अटक गये रावण के जल-मरने के इंतज़ार में,
रावण भी भांप गया इसबार के मुकाबले में श्री राम नहीं
बदलो दिशा करो आक्रमण जान की कोई परवाह नहीं
एक बाज़ी में समय का पहिया ऐसे घूमा है
रावण की काया भी मंडराती है सर पर ये हर कोई भूला है
यही मुसीबत का कारण है
नतीज़तन हार रहे लोग हैं, जीत रहा रावण है
इस रावण की बला पर किसी का जोर नहीं
जिनका जोर था किसी युग में रावण पर
इस युग में अभी वो मौजूद नहीं
इस युग में ...हाँ
इस युग में मेरे श्रीराम नहीं, वो मेरे हनुमान नहीं!

Dakshita

The Dtu-Dce Paradox

Karan Singh Bora, 2nd Year, EE
Srishti Mittal, 2nd Year, PSCT

What happens when a student from 90s DCE suddenly wakes up in modern-day DTU?

I must have dozed off again. I have to admit, nothing beats a mid-lecture nap on a Monday afternoon.

"Log in to your individual apps for the attendance, everyone!"

Startled by this sudden announcement, I ask my partner what the professor is talking about. He gives me a side glance, as if I've asked the most absurd question. I see him turn on his phone - is that a phone with no buttons? - and click on a blue icon. To my surprise, this somehow makes the professor aware of his presence inside the class. Before I can ask any questions or beg him for attendance, the professor hurries away. I'm left confused about what is going on within the lecture hall; apparently, it transformed while I was asleep.

My classmates - strangers, all of them - begin to shuffle outside, and naturally I follow. What I see outside makes me freeze in my tracks. Lush greenery, wide roads - I'm apparently in a huge campus with an equally massive number of people to fill it. In the distance, I sight a clock tower without a clock.

Following the endless stream of students originating from sources unknown, I enter what seems to be the canteen. I take one look at the price of a samosa and walk right back out, suddenly no longer hungry. This is even more mind boggling than the time I went to attend that advanced workshop on Signals & Systems. Nothing makes any sense; am I in the right college? The right century?!

However, a figure clad in white catches my eye. Sitting comfortably on the pavement, surrounded by large tables, vessels and hungry students: the legend himself, Maggi Baba. I see a boy knock over a glass, and Baba releases a familiar outburst of profanities. Tears blur my vision as I take in the comforting sight.

It seems some things truly never change.

Different Ages, Different Problems

Ishaan Gupta, 1st year, ME

When I was a little boy, I would often go to my grandpa's room. We didn't have a TV then, and many of my friends weren't allowed to play in the sunlight, consequence of their mothers trying to preserve their skin complexion. Pa would always make space on his 'khaat' for me to sit. His life stories were simply beautiful. He had been a bread winner for his parents and his 6 siblings since the age of 7. He had slaved away his youth working in fields and worrying every second. He went on to go to college through a scholarship and was hired as a lecturer by the university. Life moved so fast for him that he always had something to do, whether it was getting an education or a paycheck, he never had the luxury to think about what he wanted to do. He knew that his son - my father - would be better.

My dad went to a government school all his life. He had duties to fulfill - being the eldest of his siblings - like doing all the house chores, often making his own lunch for school, sewing up his own shoes instead of buying new ones. He would travel in buses in chilly December mornings to get to a school. He married my mother at the age of 21. He started his own business, taking the seed money at crushing interest from the market. For the first 5 years of his business, he took no leaves, making sure that he earned just enough to feed my mom and I. He took no breaks, because he had a dream of his giving his lovely son everything he wanted, a goal he achieved.

He has only expected one thing from me all his life: to be successful, and have a happy life. Seeing their lives, it seems like a very simple thing. But how am I supposed to be successful, when I don't know what I want to be successful at? How am I supposed to look him in the eye and tell him that his boy isn't happy?

My problems aren't tangible like my kin's. My problems exist in my head, ever aggravating and dancing in different parts of my head. Continuously looping, hiding themselves in different parts of my brain, leaving me a reluctant victim in a snowstorm.

So I go looking for answers. I skip yet another class and get on the metro. I put on music to drown out my thoughts. And then, I finally reach my destination. I walk the rest of the way. I climb up the stairs and ring the bell. My aunt opens the door as I walk inside, greeting her gently.

I sit at my spot on the khaat, joining my hands to greet my grandpa.

The road less travelled would not always make the difference. You will have to take a lot of wrong paths, to find that right one.

Usually a frenzy of activity during Engifest, this lane lies isolated during other parts of the year.
